Purpose of the Post

Royal Holloway, through the Department of Information Security (also known as the Information Security Group (ISG)) has been at the forefront of information security education since 1992 and has been delivering a distance learning MSc in Information Security since 2003. The distance learning (DL) MSc programme is provided through the University of London (UoL) and its partners. Royal Holloway provide the content, online seminars/lectures/labs, assessments and exams through a team of academics and tutors managed by the Programme Director (PD).

The PD has the following key responsibilities.

1. Providing academic leadership of the Programme, and ensuring that academic and quality standards as well as all critical milestones of the Degree are met.
2. Providing overall responsibility for the delivery of learning materials for the DL MSc, in accordance with the UoL Module Development process.
3. Nominating and actively supporting the selection of Academic Subject Experts to develop learning resources and teaching and assessment strategy in accordance with the approved degree and module specifications.
4. Ensuring that all infrastructure requirements are collated and scoped for feasibility and reflected in the Business Case/Plan.
5. Defining the selection criteria for the appointment of Module Leaders and Online Tutors for each session, and actively supporting the Programme Administrator/Officer with the selection, training, and supervision of these roles.
6. Taking responsibility for the provision of all academic support and direction for students including: the academic content specification for the programme; ensuring the production of study materials in all media, including compliance to statutory regulations and UoL policies on accessibility; ensuring that there is the necessary tutoring support and assessment as per the module specification and design plan for each module; performing the duties in an expert and diligent manner, to the best of their academic, technical and creative skills.
7. Ensure that student assessment is undertaken to schedule by appointed examiners and to the appropriate academic standards in line with the quality assurance schedule.

8. Engage with development updates and enhancements of required programme software and any other learning resources used in the programme.

9. Work closely with the Programme Administrator/Officer to support all administrative and operational activities for the programme.

10. Be the academic lead for all UoL programme related governance meetings (during the development and delivery of the programme) as well as quality assurance events such as the Periodic Programme Review.

11. Review resources and the maintenance of learning content through the Annual Collaboration Review and provide Business Plans to support investment in the programme.

12. Act as key academic liaison to the UoL operational teams responsible for supporting the student lifecycle. Working with teams on activities, including, but not limited to, webinars and welcome messages, responding to student surveys, participating in online open days and providing input into the development of the Programme Regulations and Specification.

13. Liaise with professional bodies (as required) to achieve professional recognition for the programme ahead of programme launch and retaining recognition for the term of the Degree.

14. Lead the accreditation process for the programme with the National Cyber Security Centre (NCSC) and any other relevant certification bodies.

15. Work with UoL marketing colleagues on the development of a programme marketing strategy and contributing to its delivery, to ensure target student numbers are met, including, but not limited to, press releases, promotional marketing assets and collateral (prospectus, leaflets, videos).

16. Work with UoL Global Engagement colleagues on the development of a programme market development strategy and contributing to its delivery, to ensure target student numbers are met, including but not limited to: Recognised Teaching Centre recruitment and approval, Industry partnerships and Programme Accreditation.

17. Work to agree collaborative arrangements around marketing and RPL with, and acting as key academic liaison for, professional bodies (where applicable).

18. Work to ensure enrolment targets, via professional body marketing (where applicable), are met.

19. Act as a representative for the programme to UoL committees and panels.

As a senior lecturer in the ISG you will make a broad and sustained contribution to the discipline nationally and internationally, and to demonstrate sustained and exceptional performance in teaching and scholarship. The post holder will provide academic leadership and will support the management of existing and future programmes and the strategic planning processes of the department and the College.
