Purpose of the Post

To teach and supervise video games development and virtual production and other related topics at undergraduate and postgraduate level, taking full responsibility for the design, management, assessment and delivery of teaching.

The role holder will be required to contribute to the academic administration of the department. They will also contribute to the intellectual life of the department, and will develop interdisciplinary initiatives with other departments within and beyond the School of Performing & Digital Arts that support innovative research and teaching. They will show a strong commitment to decolonising the curriculum, promoting gender equality, and LGBTQIA awareness, visibility, and empowerment.

If appointed as a Lecturer (Teaching and Research), the role holder will undertake research in line with their departmental research strategy, leading to a growing reputation in their fields of expertise.

Key Tasks

Teaching

- To design, deliver, and assess high quality teaching programmes and/or courses, ensuring that our teaching meets the needs of a diverse student population.
- To undertake activities supporting teaching delivery in the field of games development and/or virtual production.
- To act as personal tutor as directed by the Head of Department, ensuring appropriate support and advice is provided.
• To actively contribute to the expansion of curriculum options in this area working with others to ensure implementation as applicable.
• To contribute to other areas of teaching as directed by the Head of Department in response to departmental need.
• To design and deliver innovative approaches to educational delivery, working with others as appropriate to create a successful learning environment for students.
• To ensure the design and delivery of teaching meets the needs of students and working with others to identify future training needs.
• To engage with up-to-date literature and expertise in their professional field.
• To engage in teaching initiatives, whether internally or externally.
• To undertake activities supporting teaching delivery including supervising field trips/placements if required, undertaking assessments ensuring that constructive feedback is provided to allow for development.

Research (if appointed as Lecturer [Teaching and Research])

• To develop research objectives and proposals resulting in the publication of research outputs, suitable for REF inclusion, and knowledge exchange with relevant organisations.
• To raise external research funding, working with colleagues where appropriate.
• To enhance the departmental teaching/educational agenda through application of research expertise into teaching/curriculum development and delivery.
• To effectively present the findings of research to relevant parties both internal and external to the Universities including through collaborations, conferences and other options as appropriate.
• To undertake and contribute to peer assessment as appropriate.
• To supervise PhD students as requested.

Leadership, Enhancement, External Engagement and Impact

• To play a full and active part in the administration of the department and its external promotion.
• To attend and actively contribute to departmental, School and University meetings and working groups as appropriate.
• To contribute to the department’s growing digital media opportunities and technologically innovative approach by organising events and student-facing opportunities.
• To assist with student recruitment.
• To contribute to strategic planning processes.
• To advise and provide support to less experienced colleagues.
• To co-ordinate and engage in departmental activities such as attendance at open days or applicant visitor days.
• To participate in and develop networks both internal and external to the University to develop research and teaching profile and funding opportunities individually and for the department, School, University and field of research i.e. educational bodies, specific research networks, professional bodies.
• To engage and maintain continuous professional development.

Other Duties

The duties listed are not exhaustive and may be varied from time to time as dictated by the changing needs of the University. The post holder will be expected to undertake other duties as appropriate and as requested by their manager.

The post holder may be required to work at any of the locations at which the business of Royal Holloway is conducted.

Internal and external relationships

The following list is not exhaustive but the post holder will be required to liaise with:
